ADIEU TO FOLLY. Now, affect to all the follos That my foolish youth unfuried I for give the scandal vollies,

Of this most ungateful world. For experience teaches truly, That the more you do for man. He becomes the more murnly, And ongrateful as he can.

Like so many soundal vapors, Every woman godding goes. Boasting of the walking papers. Given jo her many beaux.

Every soundid-monger adding His and tiets to the tale, And they go about all gadding, Till a minnow grows a whale. Thus is scandal kept in motion,

Gaining strength where'er it goes, Till a fount becomes un ocean, And one ocean many grows. Let them know who scandal thickens,

Calumnies they give to earth. Will, as do the little chickers. Come to roost where they had birth. Youthful follow, farewell ever. Let the world my what it will, Here's a stout heart that will never
